Master's degrees

If you've recently graduated from your Bachelor's degree and you're not sure of the next step to take, or looking for a career change, maybe trying to get a promotion - a Master's degree sets you apart.

At University of Huddersfield – London, you'll benefit from learning in an atmosphere that promotes practical academia, and learn how to apply your knowledge in the real world. As part of your course you'll study The Global Professional module, which teaches you to understand cultural diversity within the global business world.

These one year programmes are taught postgraduate degrees where you'll learn through a combination of lectures, seminars and practical work. You'll also pursue an area that interests you when you start your research project.

Currently, we offer two Master's degrees:

Accounting and Finance MSc

Whether you're planning a career with a major accountancy firm in the UK or internationally, this course helps prepare you by developing your critical understanding of the internationalisation of accounting and specific aspects of corporate finance.

International Business MSc

This course provides an opportunity to gain critical understanding of the rapidly changing and dynamic international business environment. You'll gain knowledge of strategy and its implications to organisations competing at a multinational level.
